MORE ABOUT ME

Hello! I am Anna, and as you can see, my focus is on languages, education, arts, culture and technology.

I have a passion for hosting conversations about social issues. Examples of that are the panel discussions I held to question the financial influence of fossil fuel industries in cultural spaces, and the group talks around a future sustainable fashion and the ability one has to communicate their message through clothes. I also taught French to students, while I was studying Modern Languages & Law.

Click the logos on the right of my experiences to learn more, and I will gladly elaborate during a call.
